

BRAND IDENTITY / PACKAGING / ART DIRECTION

iMinerals

Everyday wellness, clearly expressed.

A branding case study by Sooraj Somarajan

Make the range
feel clear.
Make the brand
feel human.

The design problem

Communicate a supplement range with warmth and clarity, while giving every product a recognizable place within one brand.

A warm identity. A clear system.

01

Recognizable

Deep burgundy and a prominent wordmark create a consistent visual signature.

02

Readable

A clear type hierarchy separates the brand, product name, and supporting information.

03

Approachable

Natural light, tactile surfaces, and everyday imagery soften the product presentation.

Warmth. Contrast. Clarity.

One system. Distinct products.

A consistent hierarchy

The vertical brand name anchors the pack. The product name takes priority, followed by the formula descriptor and capsule count.

BRAND / PRODUCT / DETAILS

Art direction

Natural light. Tactile surfaces. A product-led composition.

The detail builds the feel.

Translucent burgundy glass and a brushed silver lid bring depth and contrast to the packaging presentation.

PRODUCT VISUALIZATION CONCEPT

The same identity, online.

Burgundy typography and product imagery carry the visual system into the homepage.

A recognizable world for iMinerals.

The visual system

A consistent colour palette, expressive typography, structured packaging, and warm imagery connect the brand across print and digital touchpoints.
